National Law.

Extract from the letter of the Paris correspondent of the Courier des Etats Unis, published in that paper yesterday, dated September 15, 1853.

The Russo-Turkish question will not probably be the only one discussed in the little Congress at Olmutz. Austria will easily have it in her power there to put forward the scheme spoken of in the Correspondence Lithographie, of Berlin, upon the the Presidency in 1856? "Can secure Van Buren subject of a collective declaration of the principal powers against the thesis of international law sustained by the United States in the affair of the refugee, Koszta. I have noticed that, in republishing private letters. I do not care for the Presidency. I the article of the semi-official journal of Berlin, the Paris Constitutionnel suppresses the phrase in which France was named among the powers who wished to make that declaration. This suppression is significant. It corroborates the opinion of the Siecie. which refuses to believe that France, whose governments have always defended the rights of neutrals, would be disposed to take the part of the power which has taken the lead in violating a neutral territory by causing a refugee to be carried off. without legal authority, and by a troop of bandits.

To the doubts of the Siecle I will add that, if I am well informed, Mr. P. Soule, in his interview with Mr. Drouyn de Lhuys, has eloquently called his attention to the moral and material advantages which a more intimate alliance with the United States might offer to France. Notwithstanding the present policy of its interior administration. France has remained the most natural and the surest ally of the American democracy, which sees in her its instincts and its civilizing mission, which the form of her government may restrain but cannot stifle -On her side, France, although imperial, has a great interest in relying upon America against European commercial relations for the purpose of supplying that which may be wanting in the affinity of their political relations. It is said that Mr. Drouvn de Lhuys so well understood these elevated views, that he replied to Mr. Soule: "You have just expressed my own ideas." These germs of intimacy must bear fruit; and I hope that, before long, we shall In presenting this justly celebrated Medicine to the public, see the two governments sign some treaty which will open France to Austrian productions, and Amer-This remedy having been, for years, used in this place, for ica to French products, more amply than hitherto. same class, the proprietor has been induced to offer it on a are so sympathizingly welcomed, the cabinet of the more extensive scale, with a view to lessen the amount of Tuileries would not band itself against that of Washington in any demonstration which might not Many useless nostrums have been palmed upon the public. appear to it imperiously required by its interest and
